FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Lurleen Worthington Supports Meeting the Needs of Residents, Praises Public Works Department and Improvement Projects

Plumstead Township, PA. “I am impressed by the outstanding accomplishments of our Public Works Department. These dedicated women and men help to ensure that our communities’ needs are met and often exceeded. When you witness their efforts, like I did while they were repaving Meetinghouse Road last week, you see how efficiently and professionally our Township is managed compared to others.”

Lurleen Worthington is running for Township Supervisor alongside Jim McComb, who is seeking re-election on November 4th, 2025. “When you view the high-quality services provided under Republican Leadership in Plumstead Township, you realize how fortunate we are here. I want to expand that leadership team to ensure that our Township Supervisors continue to manage costs wisely and protect tax dollars. Our Republican leaders demand that our infrastructure is maintained and improved and that our safety and emergency services meet our needs, now and in the future.

“We are facing significant challenges in the coming years that require laser focus on the needs of our entire community, not the wants of a few. That’s the kind of transparency that only Jim and I, as candidates, bring to all residents. We believe that tax increases should be limited, reasonable and responsibly managed to support necessary infrastructure and safety services. The lofty promises made by others are just empty rhetoric resulting in steep tax increases that we’ve already seen in Democrat-run townships, the County, and local school districts. Just look at your latest real estate tax bill. Even if you rent your home in Plumstead, these outrageous increases ultimately appear in your rising rent.
